Introduction

Thank you for buying this book. I'm glad you're here, because it means that you understand the importance of training your brain.

The brain is the most complex and important machine in the human body; it regulates all our cognitive and physical functions.

Every day, it manages thousands of pieces of information coming from the outside but also from the inside of our body, processing immediate responses to hundreds of external and internal requests and impulses.

It's easy to understand then that our well-being depends largely on its optimal functioning, which is certainly obtained through proper nutrition, but especially through continuous training.

By now, many psychologists agree that the human brain should be treated as a muscle and therefore trained as such if we want to keep it elastic and tonic.

If we think about it, it's easy to see how we spend a lot of energy and money on cosmetics, body care products, and gym subscriptions to have perfect physiques and sculpted muscles.

However, how much do we invest to keep our most important "muscle" in shape, in order to maintain (or obtain) that mental well-being which our serenity, our physical appearance, and our health surely depend upon, as well as the positive attitude from which our happiness is born?

As confirmed by countless scientific studies, people who are mentally tired or under psychological stress don't live well: they age earlier, are more at risk of getting sick, and have greater difficulty in recovering from physical problems.

We live in a society that puts us through a hectic life, with thousands of impulses of all kinds to face on a daily basis; therefore, mental tonicity is crucial nowadays.

And whether you are 20 or 80 years old, it is essential to have a ready, active, and fit brain in order to be able to cope with all this in the best possible way.

There is no better time spent than that devoted to cultivating our mental well-being.

Scientific studies have shown unequivocally, that those who consistently dedicate time to training their minds feel much better psychologically and physically, have a more active and fulfilling life, and a significantly higher life expectancy.

That said, there's more great news.

To train your brain and to do what the experts call "cognitive training," you don't need to join a fitness center, nor do you need a dietician or expensive miracle preparations.

All it takes is play and practice, and all the tools you need are books like "The Brain Training": a collection of games designed specifically to train your brain and get in good shape.

Day after day, this personal mental trainer will help you achieve a responsive and toned brain, and consequently a better general psychophysical well-being through a series of games chosen among the most famous and useful, with different levels of difficulty, that will make you:

- greatly improve your short-term and long-term memory and mental performance;
- develop your logical and mathematical sense;
- refine your linguistic and cultural knowledge;
- increase your mathematical skills;
- strengthen your observation and deduction abilities.

To do this, we have designed a series of fun and relaxing games with varying degrees of difficulty indicated by "Brain Points" (as we'll explain on the next page) to which you just need to consistently devote 30-60 minutes a day in order to achieve real results and build a brain as sharp and efficient as that of a young child.

See you in our Brain Gym!

How to best carry out The Brain Training Activities

This program consists of 17 different activities, each with a specific purpose, repeated several times with different degrees of difficulty.

We have not adopted the usual pattern you often find in puzzle magazines, with easy games at the beginning and difficult games at the end. That's because this is not a simple magazine, but a program designed to train your brain.

Instead, we have alternated different types of games and levels of difficulty – sometimes even within the same game – to make sure your mind is properly stimulated.

Playing too many easy games in a row will bore you, and playing too many difficult games in a row will tire you out and cause frustration. Both will cause your attention to wander.

You won't find games of the same type scattered randomly, but each game is repeated several times because, as with physical workouts, the exercise must be repeated several times to really benefit from it.

Just like to develop your biceps you don't lift a weight once now, and another in 5 days, but you have to do a series of consecutive repetitions; so our brain needs to repeat several times the same type of game, to assimilate it and improve.

So, for example, word searches will all be consecutive; and we recommend that you perform them in that order if you want to get the maximum benefit. The same applies to all the games within the book.

You will find games to develop one or more different mental abilities, including:

- memory and linguistic/cultural mastery (word search, word scramble, crossword, cryptogram, Trivia, world quiz)
- logical/mathematical abilities (sudoku, kakuro, cryptogram, nonogram)
- visual memory and observation skills (word search, word scramble, find the difference, number search, mazes).

We have also added two equally important sections:

- Coloring pages, which you can do whenever you want as a relaxing break to recover between periods of play (always remember the logic of training: exercise, repetition, recovery/rest). Moreover, coloring develops the creative abilities of the brain.

- Games for two, which you can do with a friend or family member to develop brain interaction and the innate and vital desire in each of us to play and challenge others (and ourselves!), which by the way is another great exercise to keep the mind alive.

Finally, we have created an easy and fun scoring system to help you keep track – if you wish – of your level of training and progress, just like all good personal trainers should do with their trainees.

Each game has been assigned a score, or "Brain Points", based on its level of difficulty. And each page explains how to count them.

Once you have finished the book, you can count all the points you obtained (points are assigned only if you have managed to complete the game without the help of solutions, except for cryptograms, where if you want you are allowed to use the hints provided).

Based on the total score obtained, you will be assigned a colored belt according to the Karate model: from white belt to black belt, or even the title of Brain Master if you manage to complete all the games.

With our next books, you will then be able to verify your improvements over time.

Of course, you are also free to complete the games without keeping track of your scores. The training will be just as effective.

What's important to train your brain is that you strive to complete all the games according to your best abilities, without giving up too easily.

However, we have put all the solutions at the end of the book, so that if you can't complete the game, you can help yourself with some little "hints".

Well, it's time to exercise!

Arm yourself with a pencil, keep your mind sharp, and have fun!

JUST A FEW INSTRUCTIONS IF YOU DON'T KNOW ANY GAMES

Word search

You have to find all the listed words in the grid. The hidden words can be positioned in one of eight possible directions horizontally, vertically, or diagonally (left to right, right to left) but always on one straight line.

Word scramble

You have to drag the letters into their correct positions to unscramble the original word or phrase.

Sudoku

The classic Sudoku game has played on a grid of 81 squares divided into nine blocks, each containing nine squares. The rules are easy: each of the nine blocks has to contain all the numbers 1-9 within its squares. Each number can only appear once in a row, column, or box. You have to fill in all the squares.

Number Search

It has the same rules of word search with numbers instead of words.

Kakuro

The object is to fill all empty squares using numbers 1 to 9, so the sum of each horizontal block equals the clue on its left, and the sum of each vertical block equals the clue on its top. Also, no number may be used in the same block more than once.

Cryptogram

A cryptogram is a coded message in which each letter is replaced throughout by another letter wherever it appears. No letter may stand for itself, and no letter may represent more than one other letter. For example, MEET ME HERE could be PXXF PX AXJX

Nonogram

Your aim in these puzzles is to colour the whole grid in to black and white squares or mark with X. Beside each row of the grid are listed the lengths of the runs of black squares on that row. Above each column are listed the lengths of the runs of black squares in that column.

These numbers tell you the runs of black squares in that row/column. So, if you see '11 1', that tells you that there will be a run of exactly 11 black squares, followed by one or more white square, followed by a single black square. There may be more white squares before/after this sequence. If you see 0 (zero) it means - "I'm not telling you how many squares", so a column/row can contain any number of squares or gaps. ->

To solve a puzzle, one needs to determine which cells will be boxes and which will be empty. Determining which cells are to be left empty (called spaces) is as important as determining which to fill (called boxes). Later in the solving process, the spaces help determine where a clue (continuing block of boxes and a number in the legend) may spread. Solvers usually use a dot or a cross to mark cells they are certain are spaces.

It is also important never to guess. Only cells that can be determined by logic should be filled. If guessing, a single error can spread over the entire field and completely ruin the solution. It usually comes to the surface only after a while, when it is very difficult to correct the puzzle. Usually, only advanced and experienced solvers are able to fix it completely and finish such ruined puzzles.

The hidden picture plays no part in the solving process. Even if it is obvious from the picture that a cell will be a box, it is usually treacherous to rely on it. The picture, however, may help find and eliminate an error.

SCORING SYSTEM

Add up all the Brain points and check which belt you got!

WHITE BELT..... 0-29 points

YELLOW BELT..... 30-59 points

ORANGE BELT..... 60-89 points

GREEN BELT..... 90-119 points

BLUE BELT..... 120-159 points

PURPLE BELT..... 160-199 points

BROWN BELT..... 200-235 points

BLACK BELT..... 236-268 points

BRAIN MASTER..... 269 points!

(All games solved!)

Well, it's time to exercise,
and have fun.

Tic Tac Toe

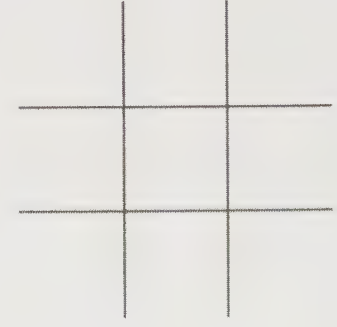

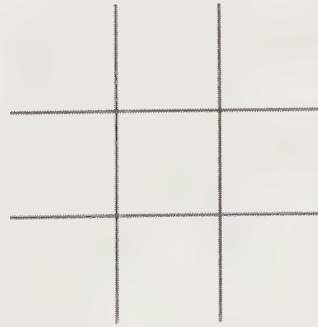

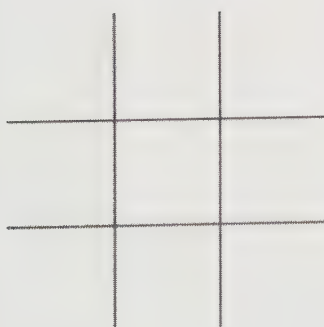

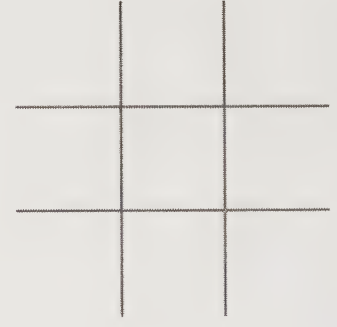

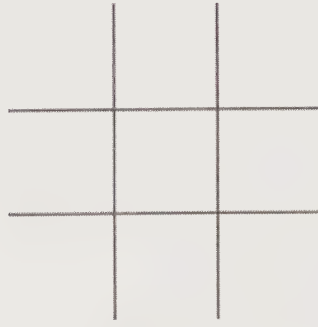

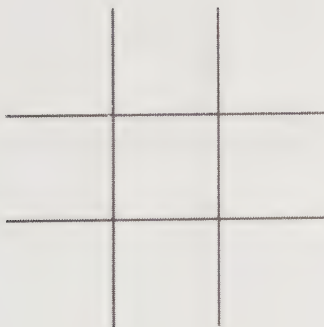

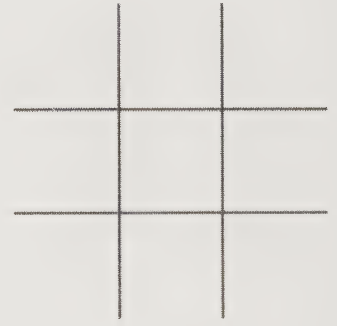

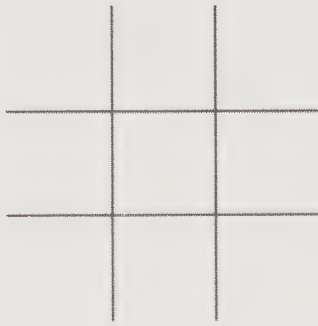

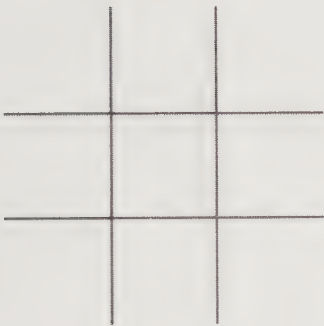

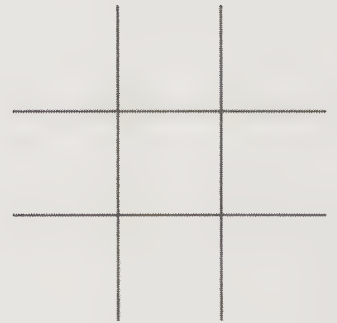

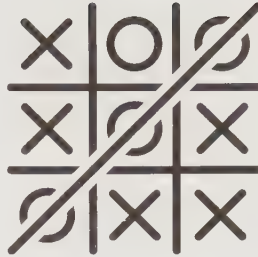

RULES FOR TIC-TAC-TOE.

The game is played on a grid that's 3 squares by 3 squares.

You are X, your friend (or the computer in this case) is O.

The first player to get 3 of her marks in a row (up, down, across, or diagonally) is the winner.

When all 9 squares are full, the game is over.

Hangman

Requires

2 to 4 players

Pen and paper

Game play

One player thinks of a word or phrase; the others try to guess what it is one letter at a time. The player draws a number of dashes equivalent to the number of letters in the word. If a guessing player suggests a letter that occurs in the word, the other player fills in the blanks with that letter in the right places. If the word does not contain the suggested letter, the other player draws one element of a hangman's gallows. As the game progresses, a segment of the gallows and of a victim is added for every suggested letter not in the word. The number of incorrect guesses before the game ends is up to the players, but completing a character in a noose provides a minimum of six wrong answers until the game ends. The first player to guess the correct answer thinks of the word for the next game.

Objective

Guess the word/phrase before your man gets hung!

Dots and Boxes

Usually two players take turns adding a single horizontal or vertical line between two unjoined adjacent dots. A player who completes the fourth side of a 1×1 box earns one point and takes another turn.

(A point is typically recorded by placing a mark that identifies the player in the box, such as an initial.)

Four in Row

FOUR IN A ROW

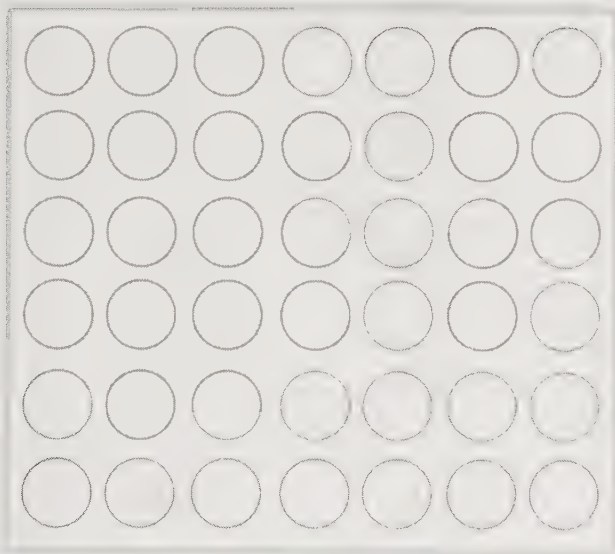

Four-in-a-row (or four-in-a-line)
the goal of the game is to connect four of your tokens in a line.
All directions (vertical, horizontal, diagonal) are allowed.

We Wish You a lot of fun!
